13. Classes

For the 2026 academic year, courses that do not require research supervision and that do not contain practical sessions will primarily be delivered via remote learning, either synchronously or on demand. Courses that involve research supervision or practical sessions will be conducted either in-person or remotely, as determined by the course coordinator.

While most classes will be conducted in Japanese, information about courses available in English can be found on the website. You can view the class schedules for the 2025 academic year on our website. Please note that these schedules are for reference only and do not apply to the 2026 academic year.

14. Scholarships

- (1) Under the Juntendo University Graduate School Enrollment Scholarship Benefit Rules, alumni of Juntendo University, Juntendo Medical College of Nursing, Juntendo Nursing College, and current university employees (who are full-time at the time of admission) may submit a scholarship application after enrolling. If selected, they are eligible to receive a scholarship covering half of their matriculation fees. Eligible applicants should fill in the necessary information in the specified section on the back of the application form.
- (2) Privately financed international students (i.e., those who can obtain a student residency status at our university after admission) may be awarded a scholarship that covers the full matriculation fee and half of the tuition fees, according to the Juntendo University Foreign Student Scholarship Benefit Rules. This scholarship is contingent upon selection, and details will be provided to eligible students after enrollment. Note that students admitted to the 1-year course are not eligible for this scholarship.
- (3) Privately financed international students who are admitted under the pre-arrival admission permission scheme (a system that allows international student applicants to take entrance exams for Japanese universities from abroad and obtain admission permission upon passing) may apply for the Monbukagakusho Honors Scholarship for Privately-Financed International Students, provided they meet certain criteria regarding grades and income. Further details will be provided during the admission process.
- (4) For more information on additional scholarships, including those provided by the Japan Student Services Organization (JASSO), please visit our website.

15. Student Insurance Enrollment and Premiums

Graduate students are required to enroll in both the Personal Accident Insurance for Students Pursuing Education and Research (PAS) and Liability Insurance coupled with PAS. These policies are designed to cover accidents that may occur during educational and research activities at the graduate school. Please be aware that the following insurance premiums are in addition to the matriculation fee and tuition and must be paid at the time of admission.

Admission Category	Payment Amount
2-year course	¥2,430 (estimated)
1-year course	¥1,340 (estimated)

16. Residence for International Students

International students residing outside Japan at the time of application and prior to admission, who will hold a “Student” visa post-admission, are eligible to apply for university-designated apartments. Unlike typical residences in Japan, a guarantor is not required for these apartments.

Conditions:

- (1) Applicants must be living outside Japan at the time of application and before admission.
- (2) Applicants must be foreign nationals planning to reside in Japan with a “Student” visa after enrolling.

Interested applicants are asked to review the residence details on our website and complete the following application procedure. Please note that rent and other expenses are subject to change due to economic circumstances.

After the announcement of successful applicants for Schedules A to C, we will email these individuals to confirm their interest in the accommodations. If the number of interested applicants is within the capacity of available apartments, we will provide details regarding move-in procedures by early March 2026.

If the number of applicants exceeds the available apartments, a lottery will be conducted to determine residency. Those not selected will receive support in finding alternative accommodations through the university’s partners. Confirmation of residency will be finalized by early March 2026. Given this possibility, we recommend considering alternative housing options as a precaution.
